Instructions for Filing a Complaint Against an Attorney or Representative

Every immigration practitioner (private attorney, accredited representative, law student, and others) authorized to practice before the Board of Immigration Appeals (Board), Immigration Courts, and the Department of Homeland Security is obligated to observe high standards of ethical conduct and professional behavior. The Rules of Professional Conduct for Practitioners (Rules) set forth at 8 C.F.R. §§1003.101-1003.107, 1292.3 govern an immigration practitioner's actions. The following are examples of behavior that may provide grounds for an investigation:

- charging grossly excessive fees
- bribery, attempted bribery, or coercion of any person in connection with any case
- knowingly or recklessly making a false statement of material fact or otherwise misleading and/or misinforming any person, including knowingly or recklessly offering evidence known to be false
- making false or misleading communications about his/her qualifications or services
- providing ineffective assistance of counsel
- repeatedly failing to appear for scheduled hearings in a timely manner without good cause
- paying others to seek out immigration clients on the practitioner's behalf
- engaging in frivolous behavior in a proceeding

Some conduct on the part of practitioners falls outside the parameters of the Rules. The Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR) Office of the General Counsel (OGC) is unable to investigate those activities and cannot:

- give you legal advice or otherwise represent you, or recommend a particular attorney or firm
- compel an attorney to act for you, or tell your attorney how to proceed with your case or to refund your fee
- investigate complaints about Department of Homeland Security attorneys

A Word about Confidentiality Generally, information about complaints or preliminary inquiries is confidential. However, by signing this complaint form, you waive the attorney-client privilege and any other confidentiality and/or privacy protections with respect to the practitioner's handling of an immigration case to the extent necessary for OGC to conduct an inquiry. By signing this complaint form, you also agree to allow OGC to make referrals to state bar and law enforcement authorities where it appears the practitioner has engaged in ethical and/or criminal misconduct and to make any disclosure to such law enforcement authorities of any and all records maintained in an EOIR system of records that are otherwise subject to confidentiality protections under the Freedom of Information Act/Privacy Act.

How to File a Complaint Your complaint should be filed in writing either by completing a complaint form or by writing your own statement. Your statement should include your name and address, the practitioner's name and address, an explanation of the circumstances, and specific details of your complaint, and your signature. Supporting documents and information, such as correspondence between you and the practitioner, documents concerning the immigration case involved (including the case name and number), and copies of filings in connection with the case will assist us in our investigation.

What Happens to Your Complaint When your complaint is received, it will be reviewed by OGC to determine whether, based upon the merits, the complaint warrants further investigation. Does the complaint allege conduct on the part of a practitioner which, if true, would violate the Rules of Professional Conduct? If the answer to this question is "no," then no further action will be taken. If the answer to this question is "yes," then a preliminary inquiry will be conducted. If additional information is needed about the complaint, OGC may request answers to specific questions, review the court file, and interview potential witnesses. If, upon completion of the inquiry, we determine that the practitioner has engaged in a violation of the Rules, OGC may issue a warning letter, or an informal admonition, enter into an agreement in lieu of discipline, or issue a Notice of Intent to Discipline (NID) to the practitioner recommending that discipline be imposed.

In a disciplinary case in which a NID is issued and the practitioner so requests, the matter will be scheduled for a hearing before an Adjudicating Official (for instance, an Immigration Judge). This is an adversarial hearing in which OGC acts as prosecutor. OGC does not represent individual complainants in this hearing; however, as the complainant, you may be called as a witness. Following the hearing, the Adjudicating Official will issue a decision either recommending dismissal of the charges or adopting, modifying, or otherwise amending the proposed discipline. The Adjudicating Official's decision is final unless the practitioner files an appeal. If the practitioner files an appeal, the Adjudicating Official's decision is reviewed by the Board of Immigration Appeals, which then issues a final administrative decision. You will be informed by letter of the final disposition of your complaint.

Further information about Rules and Procedures on Professional Conduct for Practitioners is available on EOIR's website at: <http://www.usdoj.gov/eoir/press/subject.htm>.

A Final Note Filing a complaint against an immigration practitioner is a serious matter. Your decision to file a complaint should only be made after careful consideration and after all efforts to work out the problem with the practitioner have failed. The disciplinary system is designed to provide an orderly and fair way to deal with ethical complaints against practitioners. We hope that the problem that gave rise to your complaint will be resolved to your satisfaction.

Under the Paperwork Reduction Act, a person is not required to respond to a collection of information unless it displays a valid OMB control number. We try to create forms and instructions that are accurate, can be easily understood, and which impose the least possible burden on you to provide us with information. The estimated average time to complete this form is two (2) hours, including the time for reviewing and completing the form, and gathering and attaching supporting documentation. If you have comments regarding the accuracy of this estimate, or suggestions for making this form simpler, you can write to the Executive Office for Immigration Review, Office of the General Counsel, 5107 Leesburg Pike, Suite 2600, Falls Church, Virginia 22041.
